2024 Rescission

New York	K797, B1460	Rescission	Passed 3/20/2024
----------	-------------	------------	------------------

NY was the ninth state to rescind in 9 years, bringing the number of states with no applications on record to 13: ID (2000), VA (2004), MT (2007), DE (2016), MD (2017), NM (2017), NV (2017), CO (2021), NJ (2021), IL (2022), OR (2023), NY (2024), & HI (never passed).

2024 Legislatures still in session

State	Bill #	Type	Adjournment Expected	Note	Carryover to 2025
Illinois	HJR0003	COS	12/31/24	No progress since Jan. 2023 except added sponsors.	No
Massachusetts	H. 3541, H. 3502	COS, WP	7/31/24	House calendar since 4/1/24.	No
Pennsylvania³	SR 77 (COS), SR 225, SR 52, etc.	COS, TML Countermand	12/31/24	COS on Senate Calendar since 5/6/24.	No
New Jersey³	SCR 15, SCR 35, ACR 31	COS, MISC.	12/31/24	All introduced 1/9/24.	Yes
Ohio³	HJR 3	COS	12/31/24	In House Committee since 9-12-23.	No

³These states have COS delegate bills pending to falsely assure legislators that Delegates to a convention can be controlled.

Note: Although we don't expect any more applications to pass in 2024, we need to stay vigilant & act if necessary.

2024 Losses

State	Bill#	Subject	Date Passed	Notes
Louisiana	SCR2	TML	4/20/24	Before passage, Louisiana already had 4 non-rescinded applications on record, including COS (2016), which contains term limits, & the BBA (2014).
Tennessee	HJR0005	TML	4/22/24	Before passage, Tennessee already had 2 non-rescinded applications on record—COS (2016), which contains term limits, & the BBA (2014).
North Carolina	HJR 151	TML	12/2/24	Before passage, North Carolina already had 5 non-rescinded applications on record, including the BBA (1979).

Passage of any application pushed by the major groups (COS, TML, BBA, WP), provides fodder for the false narrative that “The People” are demanding a convention.

Inconsequential Losses

Florida	HCR's: 703, 693, 7055, 7057.	BBA, TML, equal application of Law, line-item veto.	4/2/24	No effect. The BBA & TML applications had already passed in 2014 and 2016 respectively. The 2 new applications bring Florida's total number of A5C applications on record to 15!
